Diving coach arrested on sex-related charges

Well-known Edmonton diving coach Trevor Palmatier has been arrested for alleged sexual-related offences in B.C.

Edmonton police arrested the 43-year-old Wednesday after working with the Saanich Police Department since information came to light in March, EPS Det. Nicole Chapdelaine, with the Child Protection Section, said Thursday.

According to the Saanich Police Department, Palmatier has been charged with two counts of sexual exploitation and one count of procuring the sexual services of a person under 18, following two complainants coming forward.

Saanich police said the Crown approved charges based on information provided by one of the complainants, a teen-aged male who alleges Palmatier had sexual contact with him in Victoria between 2004 and 2006. "Given Mr. Palmatier has been a diving coach in Edmonton since 2008, the Edmonton Police Service Child Protection Section has concerns there may be other complainants in Edmonton who have yet to contact police," said Chapdelaine.

Palmatier has worked as a diving coach in the Edmonton area since 2008. He owns the Edmonton Diving Academy, which operates under the name Big Dog Diving.

Palmatier coached for 10 years at the Saanich Commonwealth Place in the Victoria area until 2007 and was previously employed as a diving coach with the Vancouver Aquatic Centre.

Chapdelaine said incidents such as this are very concerning. "These individuals are in a position of authority and trust," she said. "They can have a lot of influence over these kids, so it is concerning."

$16.5 million deal

Edmonton, Shaw looking at big expansion of the city's free public Wi-Fi service

Edmontonians could have free Wi-Fi service in parks, LRT stations and other public places under a proposal going to city council next week.

Under the proposed deal, Shaw communications would spend $16 million to create a Wi-Fi network using city facilities and street lights. The city's Wireless Edmonton network currently operates with a much smaller footprint.

"It is a significant expansion in terms of free access to Wi-Fi in the city. That's sort of why we're doing it," said city manager Simon Farbrother.

In the agreement, Shaw will install Wi-Fi in 63 city-owned facilities, 18 libraries, 15 LRT stations and on top of 890 street light poles to provide service in public places.

The city estimates it will spend about $540,000 working with Shaw on the project, but that is the only civic contribution.

The city is also not prohibited from partnering with other companies.

Farbrother said the system will work on LRT platforms, but trains will be harder.

"We know that it'll work in the station; it is more robust technology to have it work in the actual trains. They are going to be working on that," he said.

Shaw did not want to comment until the matter came before council next week. RYAN TUMILTY/METRO

Association heads welcome new Student Learning Assessments

ANNALISE KLINGBEIL

Students in Alberta will no longer write provincial achievement tests, the government announced Thursday.

The decades-old pencil-and-paper tests will be replaced by Student Learning Assessments, which will be administered digitally at the start of Grades 3, 6 and 9.

The new tests will maintain a focus on literacy and numeracy and allow teachers and parents to identify a child's strengths and areas for improvement over the course of the school year, Education Minister Jeff Johnson said at Oliver School on Thursday.

"It treats parents as true partners in the education system," he said.

Phasing out the old tests will take place over the next three years, beginning with Grade 3 students, who will write a pilot of the new assessments in September 2014.

The presidents of the Alberta Teachers Association and the Alberta School Boards Association attended the announcement and welcomed the axing of the traditional tests and introduction of a new form of assessment.

"If we get this right, it's going to be very valuable for teachers," said Carol Henderson, president of the ATA.

After the announcement, Stephanie Zawaduk, a Grade 8 student at Oliver School, asked Johnson why the changes to the Grade 9 tests couldn't come into effect any sooner.

"I'm in Grade 8 right now, and PATs are a stresser even now," she said. "It's just something that you think about."

In addition to lowering student stress, the new tests may also hamper efforts by organ-

No frills. Impact of budget cuts will be felt across school district

The Edmonton Public School Board may axe consultants and cosmetic school maintenance as the district works to combat a $53 million budget shortfall.

There may not be money for any maintenance above and beyond keeping staff and students safe, said Edmonton Public School Board Chair Sarah Hoffman on Thursday.

"Schools that were hoping to maybe do some painting or purchase new desks or do other things to improve the quality of the physical building, a lot of that is probably going to have to go next year," she said.

"The maintenance staff that we will be able to maintain in our district, will be really focusing in on absolute safety of students and staff," said Superintendent Edgar Schmidt during a teleconference for parents regarding the board's budget this week.

Hoffman said cuts to the

district's central administration will result in "a significant reduction" to the services the district provides centrally, including consultants.

"We're looking at potentially reducing the number of consultants," she said.

Hoffman said the budget cuts will force the district to focus solely on core programming for students.

Police seek indecent-exposure suspect

Edmonton police are investigating two indecent-exposure incidents that allegedly occurred Monday in the southwest neighbourhood of Royal Gardens.

The first involved a man reportedly stepping out of a white truck, exposing himself and committing an indecent act after engaging three teen girls in conversation around 3 p.m. near 117 Street and 44 Avenue, police said Thursday.

The second incident was minutes later near 115 Street and 41 Avenue, and involved two teen girls, said police.

EIA boasts newer, taller control tower

Edmonton International Airport will be controlling air traffic via a brand new tower, and announced Thursday that it's officially up and running.

The 48-metre structure replaces a 40-year-old tower, which was four metres shorter and had 50 per cent less floor space.

"The Central Tower creates a distinctive new landmark and a dramatic icon for both Edmonton International Airport (EIA) and the Capital Region.

"But it's not just nice to look at, it was needed," said Reg Milley, EIA President and Chief Executive Officer, in a release. METRO

The city got the Capital Region Board's support for a provincial grant application that could help fund some of the downtown arena costs. CONTRIBUTED

Arena grant backed by regional board

Province unsure. Minister says guidelines are still being worked out

ryan.tumilty@metronews.ca

Edmonton moved a small step closer to filling the funding gap for the downtown arena, but the province was non-committal on whether a new grant program could be used to fund the project.

The city asked for and received the support of the Capital Region Board to apply for $25 million in funding spread over three years.

The board voted 17-7 to support the application, which is the narrowest possible margin because the board's voting model requires motions to have a two-thirds majority.

The regional collaboration program the city applied to was expanded in the spring budget and is generally designed for projects where more than one community will benefit.

Following the vote, Mayor Stephen Mandel said it was a good step forward, but by no means a solution to the project's funding problems.

"It's a letter of support for an application we are making under this program," he said. "This doesn't guarantee us anything other than the sup-

Arena deal

If the province were to approve the $25 million grant, the city would still be $30 million short in funding for the arena district and an additional $14 million for the community rink.

- Councillors voted to have city administration explore all options for funding the arena and to bring back a report to council as soon as possible.

port of the region."

The grant would still leave the city short, but Mandel said they are exploring other possible options.

Municipal Affairs Minister Doug Griffiths said the grant program is so new that the province is still working out guidelines.

"We always welcome applications so they are welcome to apply and we will see what happens after the program is finished its review," he said.

Griffiths said it would be several weeks or even months before the province could respond to any grant application, but he said the support of the board would work in the city's favour.

"There is no doubt that when a massive group of municipalities come together to tell us about their priorities that it carries a lot of weight with us."

PERCEPTION CLASHES WITH REALITY FOR TEEN MOMS

Omar Mouallem
omouallem@gmail.com

Karen Mottershead, executive director of Terra Centre, can sum up societal stereotypes of teen moms with a single anecdote:

Earlier this month, two of the 600 mothers the centre helps were riding a bus to school, when, Mottershead says, the driver saw their fresh faces and baby strollers and accused them of using stolen bus passes.

What he didn't know is the school was set up by Terra with childcare services for girls like them. "His perception is, 'You're a teen mom, you can't possibly be going to school and you can't possibly afford a bus pass,'" explains Mottershead, whose 40-year-old organization offers teen parents outreach programs.

She says there's an inspiring side to their stories that society rarely sees, that often their babies are the single best things to happen in their lives. "There are many teen parents who've had a lot of life challenges and having an early pregnancy is often the impetus for them to take a look at their lives and say, 'OK, now is the time to do something different.'"

This weekend, tea shops will be overcrowded, florists will be overwhelmed and headlines will rush you to the mall with "Last minute Mother's Day gifts." We'll make a special toast to single moms, "mompreneurs" and military moms, but will anyone raise a Shirley Temple for teen moms?

It might seem laughable to call an end to the stereotypes the same week that the world's most famous teen mom, 16 & Pregnant "star" Farrah Abraham, was revealed to have made $1.5 million off porn.

But the common picture of teen mothers as wholly inadequate really is cartoonish. Many just need extra support to finish school, find full-time work, go to college, amend relationships with their parents and become better parents themselves.

Before the sexual revolution, the stigma of teen pregnancy had less to do with the baby and more to do with being unwed. The overwhelming majority of those mothers gave their babies up for adoption, which is the inverse of today's reality. However, the new stigma is less sexual shame than it is stupidity — both for getting pregnant and keeping the baby.

These were highlighted in recent New York bus stop ads featuring toddlers pointing out their future parents' inadequacies with such comic sans-font messages as: I'm twice as likely not to graduate high school because you had me as a teen.

"When the community sees them as incapable, that continues to erode at their self-esteem and their confidence," says Mottershead.

When it comes to stereotypes, she has heard them all. Teen parents can't hold down a job, they party all the time and (her personal favourite) they get pregnant for the welfare cheques.

These stereotypes aren't harmless. A 1993 Adolescence journal article cited teen moms as no more likely to be abusive to their children than older mothers, yet more likely to be reported for maltreatment that's later deemed false.

It's assumptions like these that do the most damage, says Mottershead. "The community doesn't understand that these young parents want something no different than what we want for our kids and they're highly motivated to do that."

North LRT on track for 2014 opening

The 3.3 kilometre LRT extension from Churchill Station to NAIT is on schedule to become fully operational by next spring, says the city.

The $755-million project, now also known as the Metro Line, is in its final construction season. This time around, however, it won't need total road closures, something that irked drivers in previous years.

"A lot of the major road closures that were needed for the project were done last year," said Program Manager Brad Smid. "But that's not to say there won't be disruptions or partial closures."

When completed, the Metro Line will connect two major hospitals in the Royal Alexandra and University of Alberta Hospitals. It will also link Edmonton's three major post-secondary institutions in NAIT, MacEwan and the University of Alberta.

The project represents a doorway into future LRT projects as well. "The Metro Line will be a precursor for a future LRT expansion to northwest Edmonton and St. Albert," said Smid. "That extension is currently being reviewed by city council."

The new leg of Edmonton's LRT line is projected to increase weekday ridership by 13,200 passengers.

Art found nestled in nooks of library booked for display

A novel idea. Stanley A. Milner Library sets up small gallery space to encourage the creativity of its visitors

heather.mcintyre@metronews.ca

Ranging from sketches to poetry to abstract creations, art left behind or created in Edmonton's downtown library is now on display.

Produced by visitors to the Stanley A. Milner Library, including many who use the outreach program, the artwork was first found throughout the library by staff, who then began to encourage its creation back in January.

"We covered some of our tables with paper and put out markers, pencil crayons and crayons," said branch associate manager Caroline Land. "There was a lot of creativity happening within the library space, and we wanted to give people a chance to share their art with others."

The small gallery was set up May 5, and will be open until the end of next week. At that time, Land said staff will collect new artwork for two or three more showcases this year.

Many of the artists are anonymous, while some use nicknames or fully disclose their identity.

Kevan Lyons, known as 'The Poet' at Churchill Square because he sits there and writes day after day, has poetry on display.

The 62-year-old spent 15 months on the streets due to addiction, and said poetry helped him heal — and he hopes it can help others too.

"(The library) is a place to go, to connect with others," he said. "This is a great opportunity to show — and get — inspiration."

Within a year, the library would like to create a Makerspace, said Land, where customers can access information and tools — such as video game consoles, video editing equipment and musical instruments — for creative projects.

"It would be expanding this and bringing in different technologies that will allow people to create in the library."

You're hired. Police plan to beef up their staff

The Edmonton Police service is looking to add 239 bodies to its ranks over the next five years, according to a report going to council next week.

Stemming from a request councillors made at budget time last year, the report outlines the force's plan to increase staffing levels, adding about 35 positions a year to accommodate growth in the city. They would also want to add 64 positions for new facilities and to help target priority areas. The 239 included sworn officers and civilian staff.

Lisa Jimmo with the force's office of strategy management said the type of new positions would vary year-to-year.

"We need a mix of both types and depending on the priority of the positions in any given year we'll determine whether they are sworn or non-sworn," she said.

Jimmo said there has been inconsistency over the last number of years in how many new positions the service could add, and they hope this report will help address that.

"Council wanted to see staffing plans that would show a longer-term plan and that's what this plan is doing," Jimmo said.

There are currently about 1,500 officer and 500 civilian staff with the police service.

NAIT's most decorated athlete graduates

Badminton. Kai Dan has won an unprecedented 5 CCAA titles and now has Olympic aspirations

Six years ago, Kai Dan arrived in Edmonton from China for an education and a chance to continue playing badminton.

Today, he graduates from NAIT as the most successful athlete in the school's history.

Dan, now 24, was named Canadian Collegiate Athletics Association (CCAA) Men's Badminton Player of the Year last February for the second time. He followed that up by winning his record-setting fifth CCAA title just a few days later. No other athlete has ever done that in any sport.

"(At) about 10, my dad grabbed me a racket and we started playing. And now I'm here," Dan said.

He compared coming to Canada to when he moved 1,800 kilometres away from home to play badminton at 13.

Dan now has to decide if he should compete for Canada at the Olympics. If he were to do that he'd have to give up his Chinese citizenship, which would require him to get a visa anytime he visited his parents.

He would also have to devote time to training, delaying plans for starting a career.

Dan, however, seems up to the challenge. "I'd love to compete for Canada. I love it here."

Who's got 2 wheels and is about to get ribbed? Edmonton cops on Segways

They have two wheels, weigh 105 pounds, cost about $7,000 and can travel up to 38 kilometres on a single charge.

And the Edmonton Police Service has purchased six of them.

Segways, the self-balancing vehicles used by everyday citizens and law enforcement agencies across North America, will be driven by officers on city sidewalks beginning next week.

The Segway Police Patrollers are equipped with bells and red and blue lights and will help officers be visible and respond to emergencies quicker than if they were on foot, according to police.

"On the unit, people see you, you see people. You're a foot taller than everybody else, so our visibility is very high," said EPS Superintendent Tony Harder.

Harder is not worried the increased visibility will also lead to increased teasing from citizens.

The EPS has purchased 6 Segways to help policing. ANNALISE KLINGBEIL/METRO

"I do know who Paul Blart is. As a police officer, I'm not fearful of being mocked," he said, referencing the 2009 movie Paul Blart: Mall Cop, in which a security guard on a Segway must save a mall from crooks.

Molson/Crosstown. Residents invited to discuss plans for site

The Oliver Community League wants to hear from local residents and business owners about proposed plans for the Molson/Crosstown site.

First Capital Realty Inc.'s redevelopment plan for the former Molson Brewery Site near 104 Avenue includes a new retail complex, a series of residential towers, and preservation of the brewery building itself.

League president Jarrett Campbell said concerns he's heard from the community include lack of heritage, walkability, bikability, and integration with future LRT.

"We have a letter that I wrote to the developer ... based on my own perception, my own experience. So it's that much more powerful to have something coming from the whole community."

A design-committee hearing is slated for May 21 and public consultation for May 23, while zoning should go before council mid-July, said Campbell.

The event, including lunch, is Saturday at Christ Church Hall (12116 102 Avenue) at 11 a.m. RSVP at olivercommunityconsultation.eventbrite.com. HEATHER MCINTYRE/METRO

Teacher deal deadline Monday

Education. Minister says it's premature to speculate on what will happen if not all school boards and union locals ratify the deal

ANNALISE KLINGBEIL

The minister of education has spent this week talking to school board chairs, as the deadline for a tentative teacher deal looms.

Jeff Johnson, minister of education that have not supported the deal, he would not speculate on what will happen if not all school boards and union locals ratify the deal by the deadline set at 3 p.m. that day.

"We'll see what the scorecard looks like Monday afternoon," Johnson said on Thursday.

The tentative deal was struck between the province and the Alberta Teachers' Association in March and must be ratified by all school boards and union locals to be approved.

"The way the framework is, it's an all or nothing, so we'll have to make those decisions on Monday," Johnson said.

By Thursday, 57 bargaining units had supported the deal, one (St. Albert Public Teachers Local 73) had rejected it and four had not yet decided. Fifty-one school boards have endorsed the agreement.

While mum on details, Carol Henderson, president of the Alberta Teachers' Association, said the association was aware going in that some may not support the deal.

"We have some options... We will be making a decision and it will not fail," she said.

Bar fight

Woman denied court hearing

The Supreme Court of Canada won't hear an appeal from a woman who was fined $500 under an Edmonton municipal bylaw that penalizes fighting in a public place.

Renada Lee Keshane was ticketed after a 2009 fight outside a bar and fought it in court, arguing that the city encroached on federal jurisdiction when it passed what she argued was an unconstitutional bylaw. THE CANADIAN PRESS

An odd catch. Marijuana and seafood seized in Stony Plain area bust

Edmonton area Mounties netted a big catch Wednesday.

A 52 year old B.C. man has been charged with possession of marijuana and during the bust police found a cache of crab meat, RCMP said in a release on Thursday morning.

On May 8th at 1:30pm, the man was stopped for a speeding violation on Highway 16 near the town of Stony Plain and was found to be in possession of approximately 15 lbs of marijuana.

He was also in possession of approximately 50 lbs of processed crab meat and around 20 lbs of other fish products.

An investigation is ongoing in relation to the fish seizures.

Currently, he has a court date set for June in Stony Plain with the potential for additional charges at a later date. METRO

Magic mushrooms give some depression sufferers high hopes

Potential. Research shows that their active ingredient dampens part of the brain which is overactive in depressed people

KIERON MONKS
Metro World News

Desperate for a fix, David Nutt considered buying magic mushrooms from the street. Restrictions on the drug were making it impossible to conduct clinical trials, and Nutt had no way to secure the mushrooms that are widely available from illegal dealers.

"Fortunately the publicity helped, we are optimistic about the licence and supply now," Nutt, head of neuro-psychopharmacology at Im-

A treatment 'prospector'

"I'm not saying we will revolutionize depression treatment, but there is a group for whom it will be useful."

U.K. Professor David Nutt

perial College London in the U.K. told Metro.

No stranger to controversy — Nutt was fired as government adviser for claiming ecstasy is as safe as horse riding — he is set to push the boundaries with the first trial of magic mushrooms to treat depression.

Research has shown that psilocybin, the active ingredient in mushrooms, dampens the brain's anterior cingulate cortex, which is overactive in depression sufferers. Trials will target the most severe cases. "The hypothesis is lasting benefits for people who have not responded to interventions," says Nutt. If the treatment seems radical, the professor argues it is proportionate. "Depression is the largest cause of disability in Europe, and only two-thirds of people get well. The rest are out of work and can't cope — we have to try everything."

But despite a rigorous attachment to evidence, Nutt admits he is fighting a crusade and wants to "tap into a reservoir" of hard drugs in clinical practice. "It's a campaign for the liberation of science — drug laws have censored research in this field for 60 years. I think it's the worst censorship since the Catholic Church stopped Galileo using his telescope."

Psilocybin and other mind-altering drugs are becoming popular solutions to a broad spectrum of mental health issues. A 2012 study found that ecstasy chemical MDMA had a lasting impact on post-traumatic stress disorder. Norwegian academics recently found that LSD improved misuse rates in 59 per cent of alcoholics.

"LSD seems to help people see their problems in a different light, to give new insights into their problems ... and to make a strong resolution to discontinue their drinking," said psychologist Pål Johansen.

After the idea was raised in a Twitter conversation between Calgary Stampede officials and Chris Hadfield on the International Space Station, the Stampede invited the Canadian astronaut to lead its 2013 pa-

That prompted Stampede president Bob Thompson to take things a step further. "We would like you to be a big part of our 2013 celebration here in Calgary," Thompson said in a YouTube video posted Thursday. Shortly after noon Mountain Time, Hadfield accepted the invitation.

Third man arrested in alleged VIA terror plot

Recruiter? Authorities say Tunisian 'radicalized' a Montreal man who planned to help blow up a cross-border train

Railway security

VIA says it is contemplating whether to ask all of its travellers for ID as it considers ways to buttress security.

- VIA spokesman Jacques Gagnon said, "In the context of what has happened recently, we are looking at this. But I cannot speculate as to what (we) will do."

A former Canadian resident charged with terrorism offences in the U.S. allegedly radicalized a Montreal man accused of plotting to attack a VIA Rail train, U.S. authorities said Thursday.

Tunisian Ahmed Abassi was charged with fraudulently applying for a visa in order to remain in the U.S. to facilitate an "act of international terrorism."

Two Canadian residents — Raed Jaser of Toronto and Chihab Esseghaier of Montreal — face terrorism-related charges.

Details of Abassi's arrest and charges were included in a release on Thursday. According to the release, Abassi met with Esseghaier in New York City.

"Esseghaier, who was recently arrested in Canada and is currently incarcerated there on terrorism charges, was previously radicalized by Abassi," the release said.

T.O. man charged with kidnapping, sex assault

A man is facing 10 charges, including kidnapping, robbery and sexual assault, after police say a 61-year-old woman was car-jacked while sitting in front of a Toronto coffee shop. Police say the incident happened early Wednesday morning. Seven charges.

Women gave no indication other brothers were involved: Police chief

The man accused of raping and kidnapping three women, who were missing for about a decade before being found alive at his home, was ordered held Thursday on $8 million bail.

Ariel Castro looked down at the ground for almost the entire arraignment hearing. He didn't speak.

The women found alive after a decade in captivity endured lonely, dark lives inside a dingy home where they were raped and allowed outside only a handful of times in disguises while walking to a garage steps away, investigators say. One of their young daughters was also freed from the house.

The 52-year-old former school bus driver has emerged as the lone suspect.

Daughter's tearful apology

Castro's daughter, Arlene Castro, appeared on Good Morning America on Thursday. She tearfully described being embarrassed and devastated upon learning of her father's suspected role in her good friend Gina DeJesus' kidnapping

- Arlene was walking home from school with DeJesus in April 2004 just before she disappeared. "I would like to say I'm absolutely so, so sorry," she said. "I really want to see you Gina and I want you to meet my kids. I'm so sorry about everything."

Assistant county prosecutor Brian Murphy said the women were beaten repeatedly and sexually assaulted. He said Castro used the women "in whatever self-gratifying, self-serving way he saw fit."

3D printers will help mould and shape things to come

The future is now.

London, Ont., museum replicating old exhibits with new technology, showing potential real-world applications

KEVIN HURREN
For Metro in London

These days, going to a museum in London, Ont. can feel like entering a whole new dimension.

Museum London has gone 3D — turning to the latest craze in printing to recreate historical artifacts.

Right now, the work's being doing on, quite literally, a miniature scale.

Select objects in the museum's London Works: Labouring in the Forest City exhibit have been replicated

When school groups come for tours, they're able to touch the pieces.

"It's a way to engage with the students that come to visit so they can actually handle these 3D replicas. Whereas, they couldn't handle something that was behind glass," said Steve Mavers, the museum's education curator.

While Museum London has only started testing the waters, others have already taken the 3D printing plunge.

The Smithsonian, for example, made at least one full-size rendition of its Thomas Jefferson bust, allowing other museums to borrow the work for displays, Mavers said.

Devon Elliott, a Western University PhD candidate in history, is well aware of the potential 3D printing has on the future.

"Historians have often worked under conditions of scarcity, but digital technologies are making things more accessible," he said.

Harry-mania hits the U.S.

Prince Harry. In his first American visit since his Las Vegas shenanigans last year, the royal spare had women shrieking in Washington

Britain's Prince Harry opened a U.S. visit devoted to the wounded victims of war at the side of one of America's most storied wounded warriors, Sen. John McCain, at an exhibition about land mines Thursday.

For the prince, the tour in the halls of Congress was a world away from the Afghanistan war zone where he recently served for 20 weeks in an attack helicopter. It was just as far removed from his hijinks in a Las Vegas hotel room last year, when fuzzy photos got out of a naked Harry playing strip billiards.

With a shrieking gaggle of young women straining to see him behind rope lines set back from the exhibition, the prince quizzed officials of HALO Trust, a charity that focuses on mine clearance and had staged the display of photos, maps and mine-detection equipment.

Memorial. Cemetery denies request from rapper's family to inscribe headstone with profanity-laced lyrics Commissioners at a Massachusetts cemetery have said no to profanity on headstones.

Sonny Santiago, 23, was a rapper who died in a car crash in February. Commissioners at Pine Grove Cemetery in Lynn this week unanimously rejected his family's request to inscribe his gravestone with a song verse that included profanity.

The commission became aware of the language when the company inscribing the three-foot-tall memorial submitted drawings to commissioners.

Pine Grove Cemetery regulations posted online state that "the cemetery office must approve all inscription work

More problems

The commission's dispute with Santiago's family is not over. The family added a 3-foot by 8-foot decoration made from mulch and rocks on his gravesite shaped like the number "1." Uno was his performance name. The family has been asked to remove the decoration because it does not conform to cemetery rules. "It's not fair," said Santiago's mother, Ana DeJesus.

"We've never had a problem like this before," commission Chairman Arthur Dulong told The Daily Item of Lynn.

City officials contacted the family about the inscription and they agreed to have the gravestone inscribed with a different, profanity-free verse.

War on drugs. Brazil introduces new rehab funding for crack users

Brazil's most populous and wealthiest state expanded its attack on crack cocaine abuse on Thursday by unveiling a program that will provide about $650 a month in subsidies for the rehabilitation of addicts at private treatment centres.

In announcing the program, Sao Paulo State Governor Geraldo Alckmin said the money will be earmarked monthly for each crack user aged 18 or more who voluntarily enrolls in a rehabilitation program that is expected to get under way in two months, in 11 cities.

The state will give the money to accredited rehabilitation centres when clients present a Begin Again card they receive after enrolling in a program. The cards are valid for six months, the time considered necessary for rehabilitation.

Alckmin said that each of the 11 cities in the program will decide the criteria that determine if drug users are eligible. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Experimental Lakes research given new life

Fed deal. Show will go on at Canadian science hub that had funding slashed by Tories

Forty-four years of continuous freshwater research at the world-renowned Experimental Lakes Area in northwestern Ontario will not be interrupted this summer after all.

The federal government has agreed to permit continuing data collection this season as it wraps up negotiations with a Winnipeg-based non-governmental research institute to take over management of the remote 58-lake centre.

Finance Minister Jim Flaherty killed the $2-million annual stipend for the ELA in last year's Conservative budget, and even fully funded researchers were being told as recently as last month that no work would be allowed to take place there this year.

The centre — not well known outside scientific circles — had become a political embarrassment for the government, a lightning rod for critics who say the spendthrift Conservatives are hacking away at environmental science while spending huge amounts on advertising and communications.

Pre-Approval Notice

IF YOU PURCHASED NEW BALANCE TONING SHOES YOUR RIGHTS MAY BE AFFECTED BY A PROPOSED CLASS ACTION SETTLEMENT

A proposed class action settlement has been reached involving New Balance Toning Shoes.

WHO IS INCLUDED?

You may be a Class Member if you purchased in Canada the New Balance Toning Shoes listed below from January 1, 2010 until May 30, 2013.

TONING SHOES:

Rock&Tone, TrueBalance, Aravon Ria, Aravon Riley and Aravon Quinn

WHAT IS THIS CASE ABOUT?

The lawsuit claims that New Balance made certain misrepresentations regarding the benefits of wearing its Toning Shoes in its marketing and sales. New Balance denies it did anything wrong. The Court did not decide which side was right. Instead, the parties have decided to settle.

WHAT DOES THIS SETTLEMENT PROVIDE?

A maximum Settlement Cap of not more than $155,000 is intended to pay claims to eligible Class Members and the costs of the settlement notice. New Balance is also agreeing to refrain from certain practices and to separately pay attorneys' fees, an award to the Representative Plaintiff and the costs of settlement administration. Full details about the Settlement are on the website www.clg.org.

WHAT TYPE OF COMPENSATION CAN YOU RECEIVE?

New Balance will provide to each individual Class Member that qualifies for Compensation the following:

- For a single pair of Toning Shoes: an amount of $100, without the necessity of proof of purchase.
- For two or more pairs of Toning Shoes: a maximum amount of $200, with proof of purchase required for at least one of the pairs of Toning Shoes.

For each Claimant who submits a valid Claim, New Balance shall provide payment as described above, so long as providing such Compensation does not exceed the Settlement Cap. If providing each Claimant with such Compensation will exceed the Settlement Cap, then in such circumstances each Claimant's Compensation shall be reduced on a pro rata basis.

HOW DO YOU ASK FOR A PAYMENT?

To get money, eligible Class Members must submit a claim form by mail postmarked no later than November 14, 2013. Payments could be up to $100 for each pair of Toning Shoes purchased, up to a maximum of $200 for multiple pairs of Toning Shoes, but will vary depending upon the number of Claims submitted by all Class Members and the costs of settlement notice, as specified more fully in the Settlement Agreement.

WHAT ARE YOUR OPTIONS?

If you are a Class Member, you may (1) do nothing; (2) exclude yourself; (3) send in a Claim Form; and/or (4) object to the settlement. If you don't want to be bound by the settlement, you must exclude yourself. However, if you exclude yourself, you can't get a payment, but you can sue New Balance for these claims. If you stay in the Class, you may submit a Claim Form and/or object to the settlement.

WHAT ARE THE IMPORTANT DATES AND DEADLINES?

A motion to approve the Settlement will be heard by the Superior Court of Quebec, 1 Notre Dame Street East, Montréal, Quebec on June 21, 2013 at 8:40 a.m. in room 2.08.

If the proposed Settlement is approved, it will be binding on all Class Members except those who timely and properly opt out.

If you wish to opt out, you must no later than August 19, 2013: i) complete and submit by mail the Opt Out Form; ii) the Opt Out Form is available on Class Counsel's website at www.clg.org. Class Members who want to opt out and who are residents of Quebec must IN ADDITION give notice to the Clerk of the Superior Court of Quebec.

If you wish to object to the proposed settlement, you must send a written notice of objection to Class Counsel and Defence Counsel by no later than June 11, 2013. Your written objection should include: (a) your name, address, e-mail address and telephone number; (b) a brief statement of the reasons for your objection; and (c) whether you plan to attend at the hearing in person or through a lawyer, and if by lawyer, the name, address, e-mail address and telephone number of the lawyer. Class Members who do not oppose the proposed settlement need not appear at the settlement approval hearing or take any other action at this time.

WHEN SHOULD I MAKE A CLAIM?

The Claim Form is available on Class Counsel's website at www.clg.org. A Claim Form must be postmarked no later than November 14, 2013. The Claim form must be sent by mail to: New Balance Settlement Canada c/o Borden Ladner Gervais LLP, attention Marie Gamelin at 1000, de la Gauchetière Street West, Suite 900, Montreal, Quebec, H3B 5H4. There will be no further notice in the newspapers of this Settlement Agreement.

WHEN DO I GET PAID?

Cheques will only begin to be mailed to eligible Class Members for Compensation at the earliest starting on November 26, 2013, assuming that the Settlement is approved and that such judgment has become final.

HOW CAN YOU GET MORE INFORMATION?

A complete copy of the Settlement Agreement and detailed information on how to obtain or file a Claim are available on Class Counsel's website at www.clg.org. To obtain a paper copy or for other information, please call Class Counsel at the numbers below.

New proposal

N.Y.C. immigrants may get right to vote in city elections

Hundreds of thousands of New York City immigrants could get the right to vote in local elections under a proposal before lawmakers.

City council members discussed the plan at a hearing Thursday.

It would enfranchise people who are in the U.S. legally, but aren't citizens. Advocates estimate that could be more than 800,000 people.

Many American states once let non-citizens vote, though policies changed by the 1930s. Some Maryland cities now allow it, and the idea has been floated in New York for years.

Supporters say immigrants who pay taxes deserve to decide who spends their money. Mayor Michael Bloomberg and other opponents say voting should be reserved for citizens. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Puerto Rico

Pfizer executive faces child-porn charges

U.S. authorities in Puerto Rico have arrested an executive at Pfizer Pharmaceutical for allegedly producing child pornography.

Officials say 48-year-old Reinaldo Diaz Camacho was charged after Puerto Rico police received information that he was having sexually explicit conversations with a 16-year-old boy on Facebook.

U.S. attorney Rosa Emilia Rodriguez said Thursday that the boy's mother told authorities she had seen the conversations on her son's cellphone.

Rodriguez says Diaz had sent the boy sexually explicit images via Facebook and text messages. She says a federal agent then posed as the teen on Facebook and continued to interact with Diaz. She says Diaz asked the boy to send naked pictures of himself.

Vietnamese take to sea again for a better life

Decades later. This year alone, 460 Vietnamese men, women and children have arrived on Australian shores

Nearly 40 years after hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese fled the country's Communist regime by boat, a growing number are taking to the water again.

This year alone, 460 Vietnamese men, women and children have arrived on Australian shores — more than in the last five years combined. The unexpected spike is drawing fresh scrutiny of Hanoi's deteriorating human-rights record, though Vietnam's flagging economy may also explain why migrants have been making the risky journey.

The latest boat carrying Vietnamese cruised into Australia's Christmas Island one morning last month, according to witnesses on the shore. The hull number showed it was a fishing vessel registered in Kien Giang, a southern Vietnamese province more than 2,300 kilometres from Christmas Island, which is much closer to Indonesia than it is to the Australian mainland.

Many Vietnamese who have reached Australia have been held incommunicado. The government doesn't release details about their religion and place of origin within Vietnam, both of which might hint at why they are seeking asylum.

Truong Chi Liem, 23, reached via telephone from the Villawood Immigration Detention Center on the outskirts of Sydney, would not reveal details of his case but said, "I'd rather die here than be forced back to Vietnam."

Politician found guilty of war crimes

Atrocities. Top Islamic party member sentenced to death, triggering fears of another wave of deadly violence

A Bangladesh tribunal convicted a senior Islamic party politician on Thursday of atrocities stemming from the nation's 1971 independence war and sentenced him to death, triggering fears of another wave of deadly street violence between supporters and security forces.

The verdict against Muhammad Kamaruzzaman was the fourth verdict in Bangladesh's war crimes tribunals since January. Dozens of people have been killed in the riots that followed the earlier cases.

There were clashes in at least two cities on Thursday, but no immediate reports of injuries. In northwestern Rajshahi, police fired tear gas to disperse dozens of supporters of Kamaruzzaman who tried to block roads and attack vehicles, private NTV television station reported. Protesters smashed several vehicles in northeastern Sylhet city, local police official Rezaul Karim said.

Kamaruzzaman, 61, was convicted in a packed courtroom of five counts of mass killings, rape, torture and kidnapping, Attorney General Mahbubey Alam said.

Australia. Search on for couple believed to have fallen from cruise ship

Authorities were conducting an air and marine search on Thursday off Australia's east coast for two cruise passengers who were believed to have fallen overboard.

The couple, Australian citizens from New South Wales state, were discovered missing Thursday morning after the Carnival Spirit docked at Sydney's Circular Quay, at the end of a 10-day journey, said New South Wales Police Superintendent Mark Hutchings.

He said surveillance camera footage showed that the couple — a 30-year-old man and a 26-year-old woman whose names have not been released — fell from the ship's mid deck on Wednesday night, when the ship was about 120 kilometres off the coast of Forster, a city 300 kilometres north of Sydney.

"This is a tragic event at the moment, but we're holding out hope we might be able to find these people alive," Hutchings said. Investigators were having the video enhanced in a bid to determine whether the couple had jumped or had fallen, Hutchings said.

The ship has about 600 surveillance cameras that are constantly monitored, although no one reported seeing the fall at the time.

No life preservers were missing from the ship, Hutchings said. A missing life preserver might have indicated that one of the missing passengers had attempted a rescue.

Jo Meehan, spokeswoman for the Australian Maritime Safety Authority, which is co-ordinating the search, said an airplane, a helicopter and police boats were searching a 1,000-square-kilometre area of sea.

Sen. Mike Duffy and others still under pressure after audit

Senate of Canada. Liberal Senate leader wants to call in the cops to investigate housing claims by Duffy, Brazeau & Harb

An independent audit into dubious housing allowance claims by three senators did little Thursday to silence allegations of improper spending and coverup hanging over Canada's much-maligned upper chamber.

Liberal Senate leader James Cowan said he wanted the committee looking into the controversy to ask police to investigate the housing claims by Conservative Sen. Mike Duffy, former Conservative Sen. Patrick Brazeau and Liberal Mac Harb.

"Personally, I think that's the appropriate thing to do," Cowan said. Liberals and New Democrats in the House of Commons also clamoured for a police investigation even as Prime Minister Stephen Harper effectively declared the matter closed — satisfied, evidently, with the audit's conclusions that the rules governing housing claims should be clarified and the money repaid.

In a letter, Duffy said: "I discovered that through a clerical error, per diems were inadvertently charged for several days when I was not in the National Capital Region."

Auditors found he collected more than $1,000 in living allowance while on vacation. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Where's home?

The furor has also raised questions about whether Sen. Mike Duffy and Sen. Pamela Wallin are entitled to sit in the Senate at all. A senator is required to reside in the province they were appointed to represent.

- Sen. Wallin's travel expenses show she spends little time in her Saskatchewan home. An audit found Duffy spent just 30 per cent of the days reviewed in his P.E.I. home.
- A separate audit into Wallin's travel expenses is continuing.

Lawmakers and White House officials meet to address sexual assault in the armed forces

Epidemic. Legislators aim to strengthen existing U.S. laws, enact new policies

Senior White House officials met privately Thursday with a bipartisan group of lawmakers as growing outrage over the armed forces' handling of sexual assaults injected new energy into efforts to rewrite decades-old military laws.

Senior aides to President Barack Obama met Thursday morning with 16 Republicans and Democrats from the House of Representatives and Senate — 14 female lawmakers and two men. Obama has said he has no tolerance for the problem and that the Pentagon must address it head-on.

In a massive report released Tuesday, the Pentagon outlined how sexual assaults across the military are a worsening epidemic.

The report emerged against a backdrop of scandals, including an ongoing investigation into more than 30 Air Force instructors for assaults on trainees at a Texas base. And just days ago, the Air Force's head of sexual-assault prevention was arrested on charges of groping a woman in a Virginia parking lot.

In addition, lawmakers have decried an Air Force officer's overturning of a jury's guilty verdict in a sexual-assault case, which is allowed under military law.

Several of the lawmakers at Thursday's meeting have been at the forefront of the issue of sexual assault in the uniformed services and have introduced legislation in Congress that is suddenly moving quickly.

Teen charged after bloody axe attack

A 15-year-old Prospect Bay, N.S., girl has been charged with attempted murder related to a bloody assault on an older woman.

Police say the teen was arrested after Wednesday night's attack on a 52-year-old woman at the home on Prospect Bay Road where they both live. "For such a young (person) to be involved in such a violent crime is a serious matter that she will have to answer to," said Cpl. Scott MacRae of the RCMP.

Police said the victim was rushed to hospital after 9 p.m. Wednesday, but she recovered and was released Thursday afternoon.

"When we arrived it was quite a scene," said MacRae. "There was a lot of blood due to (the victim) being attacked with an axe several times."

MacRae said two 15-year-old girls were arrested in a car on Mumford Road about an hour after the attack.

Both girls are expected in youth court on Friday.

Epic hack. Cyber-gang stole $45M, U.S. authorities say

A gang of cyber-criminals stole $45 million US in a matter of hours by hacking their way into a database of prepaid debit cards and then draining cash machines around the globe, U.S. federal prosecutors said Thursday.

Brooklyn U.S. Attorney Loretta Lynch called it "a massive 21st-century bank heist" and compared it to the Lufthansa heist in the late

Disney kills Day of the Dead trademark request

Patently ridiculous.

The Mouse backs down after Latino activists mock its attempt to appropriate cultural holiday for film

When Lalo Alcaraz learned this week that Disney was seeking to trademark Dia de los Muertos, the name of the traditional Day of the Dead celebrated by millions in Mexico and the U.S., the cartoonist had an idea.

The trademark was for an animated movie by Disney and Pixar Animation Studios Inc. that is inspired by the holiday.

MOST BEAUTIFUL LIST IS COMPLICATED

And now from Metro News Central, here's the weekly list of things that make you go ... hmmm?

1 Bye-bye beautiful. Hello! Magazine Canada is out with its list of 50 Most Beautiful Canadians and a face only Chad Kroeger could love is on the cover. Besides Avril Lavigne, other beauties include Justin Bieber and the Ryans, Reynolds and Gosling. Of course, none of these people actually live in Canada.

2 Came from away. Some people actually want to live in Canada. Quite a lot of people, actually. According to the latest census results, released this week, 6.8 million Canadian residents came from someplace else.

3 The world is a safer place this week. Cleveland man Ariel Castro was arrested and charged with rape and kidnapping after three women allegedly escaped from his clutches after being held captive for a decade; Bad

THE METRO LIST

Boy and former Italian prime minister Silvio Berlusconi had his four-year sentence for tax evasion upheld; and Hans Lipschis, a guard at Auschwitz from 1941-45, was arrested in Germany this week. Lipschis is 93 years old. Karma is not always instant.

4 The world is not a safer place this week. If you've got a commercial 3D printer, 60 bucks worth of plastic and Wi-Fi, you can print your own arsenal. A University of Texas law student is the first to print up a working .38-calibre handgun. He won't be the last.

5 The world is not a safer place, especially if you're a chicken. Some kid at the College of Art and Design in Calgary slaughtered a chicken in the school cafeteria recently in an act of "performance art." The kid's instructor was fired, presumably, for not being able to tell the difference between art and life. Some of his students are protesting his dismissal.

The chicken was not consulted.

6 Speaking of life and art. One of the most popular baby names for girls in 2012 was "Arya," after Arya Stark, a feisty girl character in the fantasy epic Game of Thrones series that has captivated the nerdverse. Jacob and Sophia were the most popular baby names in 2012. That's AD, not BC, although they were probably pretty hot back then, too.

7 Hockey Night in Canada continues. Sadly, not for the Vancouver Canucks, who were swallowed whole by the San Jose Sharks in four straight games. As this is written, the Montreal Canadiens, the Ottawa Senators and even the Toronto Maple Leafs are still in the quest for Lord Stanley's Cup. Well, at least Vancouver still has Lord Stanley's Park, which this week was declared the No. 2 most beautiful city park in the world by Travel + Leisure magazine. No. 1 is Park Güell, designed by the weird and wonderful Antoni Gaudí, in Barcelona. And isn't this where we came in?

While five bucks may seem pricey for a cooking app, Mark Bittman's How to Cook Everything is a bargain at twice the price. The app not only has the famed New York Times columnist's recipes and how-to pics, but also gives you access to tools like timers and shopping lists.

Dinner Spinner

Wondering what to do with those day-old red peppers and half-can of coconut milk? Input whatever's in your fridge to the free Dinner Spinner app, and voilà! A new meal idea using only what you have on hand.

Ratio

For cooks who hate recipes, Ratio offers guidelines and vague instructions rather than specific directions and ingredients, letting you run wild with creativity in the kitchen.

Big Oven

With a ton of recipes and an interface that's easy to use, Big Oven repeatedly takes home "best cooking/recipe app" awards. Though no signup is needed to access recipes, creating an account lets you scan your mom's old, handwritten recipes, share your favourite meals and have a peek at your friends' recipes, too.

Synopsis

Set in the Jazz Age — early 1920s in New York. Nick Carraway (Tobey Maguire) is working as a stockbroker in the city while living in a wealthy suburban enclave. His neighbour is the enigmatic Jay Gatsby (Leonardo DiCaprio), whose ornate mansion plays host to wild weekend parties. Turns out he isn't the aristocrat he claims to be, but the son of dirt-poor farmers who made a fortune as a bootlegger. Nick soon learns his cousin Daisy (Carey Mulligan) was Gatsby's first love. Gatsby and Daisy try to pick up where they left off, but Gatsby proves unable to control the future as adeptly as he created his past.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Pushing up Daisy

The Great Gatsby. There's plenty of eye candy here, but the real razzle-dazzle is in Carey Mulligan's portrayal of Daisy

Richard: Mark, Baz Luhrmann may be the perfect person to retell Jay Gatsby's Roaring Twenties' story. Equally at home with razzle-dazzle and substance, he captures the tone of the Jazz Age while still allowing the story's deeper resonance to shine through the gloss. It's eye candy, pure and simple, and yet the sense of doom that hangs over the beautiful and damned characters in the story is palpable. Without it this would be just another story about pretty people doing pretty-people things.

Mark: Richard, I approached this movie with some trepidation. Luhrmann is such an overwhelming director, and Fitzgerald's book can be as delicate as chiffon. And for the first half hour, it seemed that the story would be swallowed up in crazed, hallucinogenic fantasies of swirling 3D visuals, not that there's anything wrong with that. It's amazing to watch. But then the movie settled down and captured the beautiful and tragic romance between Gatsby and Daisy, and became profoundly moving. The actors all play their parts well, but I have to say the film belongs to Carey Mulligan. You, Richard?

RC: Absolutely. Daisy is one of Fitzgerald's "bright precious things," a hothouse flower and Mulligan has a face capable of simultaneously showing great happiness and profound sadness, a duality that serves her character well. She effortlessly tosses off shallow lines like, "Your life is adorable," while digging deep to convey Daisy's conflicted nature.

MB: She's exactly as I imagined her when I first read the novel over 40 years ago. I wasn't as sure about DiCaprio at first, but he grew on me. I loved the way Luhrmann took vintage movies of New York in the '20s and colorized them, and then converted them to 3D. There's a scene that takes place on a rooftop patio overlooking Times Square that completely changed the way I imagined Manhattan of the past. But what did you think of the anachronistic score? Did you have an issue with it?

RC: It's probably my least favourite part of the film. I get what Luhrmann was trying to do, but here, unlike Moulin Rouge! it doesn't really work. The Jazz Age Amy Winehouse song is OK, but the Jay-Z tune feels more like an attempt to sell soundtracks than serve the story.

MB: The film is soooooo superior to the 1974 Robert Redford/Mia Farrow version that I will forgive him almost anything. People will come for the visuals, but they'll leave touched by the story. And the clothes.

Daddy's going to hang today

Q&A. Simon Pegg, returning in Star Trek Into Darkness, tells us what his three-year-old daughter thinks he does all day

ROMINA
MCGUINNESS
scene@metronews.ca

People who get Star Wars and Star Trek confused — does that infuriate you? You can't expect everyone to know. It's like when you follow a certain religion and you think everyone celebrates Christmas. They don't! On to Star Trek Into Darkness. The scene where the spaceship is going all over the place and you and Chris Pine are jumping around and hanging off railings. Is that look on your face genuine terror?

It was more pain. I had to hang from Chris' hand and the harness could only go from my one hip so I was slightly skewed. But no, it was all acting. My three-year-old daughter was on set that day and she assumed that's what my job was. Hanging. She was like, 'Are you going to hang today daddy?'

Scotty doesn't manage to hold on to the bar and is saved by a much stronger Captain Kirk. Ever been like, man, I really wish I had Chris' body?

You should feel his arms. They're like oak. We'd go to the gym together and it was amazing how the female contingent would start gravitating towards him. Nobody paid me any attention. But no, I was pretty buff at the time! You guys should have had that chalk you wear in gym class to stop your hands from slipping.

It's not that easy to get on a falling starship...

You and Nick Frost have appeared in Shaun of the Dead, Hot Fuzz and other films together. If you could, what part would you give him in Star Trek?

I'd love him to play Harry Mudd from the original '66 series. But I wouldn't necessarily want him to be in it and I don't think he would want to either. It's not like we have to come as a package. You don't have a love interest in this movie.

What about my little guy? That's my love interest. The little fellow. We're a unit. We're married.

Your little alien assistant? But you don't even get to kiss it.

I don't kiss it. But if you could, who would you share a kiss with, Alice Eve or Zoe Saldana?

That's not a choice any man could make. They're both as gorgeous as each other. They come in and everyone is just like WOW.

Your character, Scotty, is Scottish. What's your favourite night cap? And whom would you share it with?

Sparkling water, I don't drink. Probably my wife.

Not a fellow actor? Have you met everyone in Hollywood that you've wanted to meet, as a fan?

I don't think you could ever meet everybody. L.A. is like one of those safari parks where you can walk amongst the animals. You see like, Jeff Goldblum in the supermarket.

No ganja on the
USS Enterprise

Into Darkness. Sulu a far cry from pothead Harold, of Harold & Kumar fame

scene@metronews.ca

John Cho is best known for playing Harold Lee, the investment banker and pothead from the Harold & Kumar movies. Not exactly the kind of guy you want behind the wheel, but in Star Trek Into Darkness he is Sulu, the senior helmsman of the USS Enterprise.

Harold and Sulu are as different as the fans they attract. "They're more sober," says the actor of his Star Trek fans. "They call me John Cho. The Harold fans call me Harold."

"Star Trek fans have been wonderful. I've been blown away by the variety — there are fans all over the world. There are fans of many generations and they are thoughtful people. I was fearful of them. People worked me into a frenzy about how the fans might take a dislike to the things I did, but they've been very warm."

Interestingly, he didn't consider himself a Star Trek fan when he signed on to take over for George Takei in JJ Abrams' 2009 reboot of the series.

"When I was a kid I thought the original series looked goofy because of the velour and all that," he says. "But when I was doing research for the first one I went back and watched them and I realized I had seen them all. I didn't realize how much

I had consumed over the years and how much I liked it.

"I think what I liked about it as a kid is that it was overtly intellectual. They had a way of dealing with issues that didn't speak its name. They talked about racism and poverty or whatever, but they perfected these worlds; an almost sterile environment in which you could discuss an issue."

Playing Sulu has earned him some new, unexpected fans.

"I was at Griffith Park Observatory in L.A. with my family and we were going to see the big telescope and it was closed to the public, but there was an astronomer in there who (recognized me) and he said, 'Come on in. I became an astronomer because of Star Trek.'"

As for the future of the series, Cho says, "(I'm) part of something bigger than yourself and it is a special feeling."

"I have a checkered past. I'm known as a stoner," he says. "I'm a father now and I'd be happy to make more of these and have my kids watch them."

The Great Gatsby

"I don't think about expectations. Everything I did in this work, everything we did, the focus was to try and reveal the novel... The novel wasn't set in a period called the 'Minimal Twenties.' It was called the 'Roaring Twenties.' So it had to roar."

Baz Luhrmann on directing the newest adaptation of F. Scott Fitzgerald's The Great Gatsby

Thriller

The Company You Keep

Director. Robert Redford

Stars. Robert Redford, Nick Nolte, Stanley Tucci

● ● ● ● ●

Robert Redford does triple duty as actor, producer and director on the story of Jim Grant, an ex-member of a radical activist group, in hiding since a robbery resulted in the death of a security guard 30 years ago. When one of his former associates (Susan Sarandon) turns herself in, Grant goes on the lam, pursued by the FBI and a dogged reporter (Shia LaBeouf). An all-star cast (Nick Nolte, Terrence Howard and Julie Christie) fuels this political thriller. Trouble is, there aren't many thrills. RICHARD CROUSE

Still Mine

Director. Michael McGowan

Stars. Genevieve Bujold and James Cromwell

● ● ● ● ●

Good movies about and for older audiences are the new black. Still Mine, shot in northern Ontario and New Brunswick, is one of the best. A woman in her 80's falls down the stairs, prompting her husband to build a safer home on their property with his own hands. Local planners and unsupportive children block him at every turn but his will is boundless. The meat of the story is the 61-year bond between the couple, made achingly real by two gifted veteran actors. ANNE BRODIE

Love, Marilyn

Director. Liz Garbus

Stars. Viola Davis, Marisa Tomei

● ● ● ● ●

More than 50 years after her untimely death, the world is still infatuated with Marilyn Monroe and desperate to glean as much as possible about the larger-than-life leading lady. Love, Marilyn gives audiences the opportunity to learn about the woman behind the persona. Her personal diary entries, which are read by an impressive cast, reveal a shocking depth that many may not expect from the Gentlemen Prefer Blondes actress. Director Liz Garbus combines these monologues with archival footage and original interviews to tell a compelling story. REGAN REID

Raised from the dead, The Killing springs to life with more whodunits

Television. Not long ago, it looked like the AMC show wouldn't see a third season, but it has found a new lease on life Against all odds, The Killing lives.

This AMC whodunit, which solved a tangled murder case — Who killed Rosie Larsen? — during two often gripping, sometimes exasperating seasons, then was cancelled last July for low ratings, will rise from the dead for a welcome third season on June 2.

With this new lease on life, it's preserving one of TV's most delicious acting duos — co-stars Mireille Enos and Joel Kinnaman — while also restoring the faith of Kinnaman, who, in an interview last June, when the future of the series seemed dim, declared he was planning to come back for another season even if he had to "go up there and shoot it myself."

That won't be necessary. Veena Sud, who developed the series and has served as an executive producer, is back in charge, armed with a troubling new case for Stephen Holder, the glib, gangly Seattle homicide detective played so splendidly by Kinnaman.

Joel Kinnaman as Detective Stephen Holder, left, and Mireille Enos as Detective Sarah Linden from The Killing, are re-united for a third season, starting on June 2. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/AMC

It's a year later, and a year after homicide detective Sarah Linden, Holder's glowering, pint-sized ex-partner, had left the force.

Her nerves and dedication were shattered by the Larsen case, a gruesome drowning murder of a local teen. Linden is now a ferry worker, waving vehicles on and off the ferry at its Vashon Island landing on Puget Sound.

But a serial killer she helped put away a couple of years before is nearing his execution date — even as similarly grisly murders have resumed in Seattle. Holder worries that the wrong man may have been convicted for those earlier crimes.

Initially, Linden scoffs at Holder's efforts at belated justice.

"Not every victim's worth it," she tells him glumly. "You start caring, you'll end up like me, working minimum wage on a ferry."

What she isn't saying (not yet, anyway): She, too, has been tormented by doubts that she collared the right man.

How deeply will she be drawn into Holder's frantic make-good probe as time is running out for the convicted culprit?

Meanwhile: How, if at all, is psycho-inmate Tom Seward (played chillingly by Peter Sarsgaard) linked to the rash of new murders of runaway teen girls?

Serial murder isn't the freshest idea for a TV crime drama (just in the past few months The Following and Hannibal have joined the fray).

And by the way, why does The Killing keep killing teenage girls?

Back again

This year reintroduces the irresistible Holder, a lovably scuzzy ex-narc and recovering addict who radiates a blend of hip-hop-spiked elan and fidgety insolence.

- New/old character. These days, he seems to have it made: less scruffy than when last seen, preparing for the sergeant's exam, with a perfect closure rate for his cases the past year and a cool girlfriend. Aglow with success, is he bucking for a setback? Will this case trigger it? In any case, Kinnaman steals every scene he's in, and, teamed with Enos' prickly, pushy Linden, they still crackle with the chemistry of siblings who bring out the best in each other, whatever the friction between them.

Never mind. Judging from the two-hour premiere, The Killing could snag its audience's interest as the mystery unfolds.

The premiere plants its share of provocative clues, including a grove of trees that keeps appearing in a child's crayon drawings.

When one man's job is a producer's treasure

Cameraman Joe Murgia, right, shoots a close-up of Michael Jordan memorabilia, which was brought in to the Gold & Silver Pawn Shop for an episode of the reality TV series Pawn Stars. JULIE JACOBSON/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Think your small business has what it takes to be the next reality TV star?

Shows featuring small company owners, such as A&E's Duck Dynasty and History's Pawn Stars, are hits, turning nearly unknown small businesses into household names. The shows give them exposure that most could never afford to pay for through advertising or public relations.

So you want your own show? Here's a guide.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sometimes they find you

Production companies are always on the lookout for businesses to film. That's how Pawn Stars came about. Brent Montgomery, the owner of production company Leftfield Pictures, was at a bachelor party in Las Vegas. The limousine he was in passed by a pawn shop and he came up with the idea of a reality show. Montgomery told his staff to find a family-owned pawn shop in Las Vegas. The producers found Rick Harrison of Gold & Silver Pawn Shop, who had already been pitching a reality show idea to other producers. Harrison went with Leftfield Pictures, which sold the show to History.

Pitch a producer

Many production companies accept pitches for reality shows. If a production company likes the idea, they will be able to bring it to networks. Do an online search for reality TV producers and call to see if they accept pitches. The Idea Factory, which has produced reality shows for Spike and Discovery, accepts pitches on the company's website (tftv.com). Darryl Silver, the owner of the Idea Factory, says that he usually first meets people who pitch shows through webcam chats. Silver usually asks what major events they expect to happen in the next year that could be filmed.

No failing businesses

Your business must be in good financial standing. No production company wants to start filming a show that centres around a business and then have it close down during filming. Production companies will check to make sure your business is on solid footing.

They love families

Family-owned businesses are favoured by producers because it adds "an extra level of story," says Silver. Audiences love seeing people and relationships on TV that they can relate to. Duck Dynasty, which features a family-owned duck-call business, is the most watched documentary-style reality series on TV right now, according to Nielsen, which provides information and insight into what consumers watch and buy.

Goodbye Town, hello platinum single

Dave Haywood. After major successes on previous discs, the country ballad band is claiming to be less forced on Golden

If Lady Antebellum has yet to have another hit to match the spectacular success of its smouldering 2010 ballad Need You Now — a six-times-platinum single that elicited five Grammy Awards, including song and record of the year — it hasn't necessarily been for lack of trying.

To hear Haywood tell it, Lady Antebellum has never been less forced than on their new album, Golden, out today, after Need You Now and 2011's Grammy-winning Own the Night explored sweeping, meticulously orchestrated country ballads.

This is the first Lady Antebellum record that doesn't feature orchestral strings. Why did you make that choice?

We've kind of done some more serious songs on the last few records and always done strings and these big arrangements, big overdubs. And yeah, this one we said, "You know what? Let's get in, play these dang songs, and get out." We really just didn't spend much time adding a bunch of stuff. It's not like we're in there adding like thousands of guitars all over and adding all these extra things. So for us it's all about the songs — finding a great song and finding a great arrangement that fits that song.

Goodbye Town is one of the more emotional songs on the record. What's it about? Growing up in a small town,

An escape plan

"Growing up in a small town, sometimes you're kind of stuck in that town. And it's like, man, what am I going to do to get out of here?"

Dave Haywood
Talking about the song Goodbye Town

sometimes you're kind of stuck in that town. And it's like, man, what am I going to do to get out of here? Whether or not you had a relationship there, places you go remind you of somebody and it's like: I gotta just get the heck out of this place. I think that was something we all reached down and felt like we've experienced. Musically I think it really conveys that. There's this kind of energy throughout the song where it's just, man, I want to get the hell out of here. I think that was one of our favourites to include on the record.

The band's profile has obviously grown a lot over the years. How have you handled that evolution as a group?

It's definitely been a whirlwind. When we started, it all happened organically. We started off just writing together because we loved writing music and we still do to this day. I think a lot of people from the outside looking in say: "Didn't y'all just get put together and you got thrown out there, and didn't the record label pick all these songs?" That's really not the case here at all. We wrote all these songs and we said, let's try writing them for fun, let's just get a crazy name and do this for fun and then we'll go back to our other day jobs. It'll be a side project. Having that mentality from day one, I feel we've always kept and tried to preserve how authentic we began, and we don't want to lose sight of that.

The 36-year-old singer and her soccer star boyfriend Gerard Pique welcomed their first child, Milan Pique Mebarak, on Jan. 22.

"He's great. He's so mel-low, but he's very alert too," she said in an interview Wednesday night at House of Blues in West Hollywood, Calif. "It's like he knows what's going on around him. He knows when someone comes in the room or comes out. He's something."

Shakira joined fellow The Voice coaches Adam Levine, Blake Shelton and Usher at a red carpet event celebrating

But according to Shakira, it's not the children who cause the most trouble.

"It's like a kindergarten because these guys are already babies. They're babies!" she joked of her fellow coaches.

On growing to love being a look-alike

A pretty pair. Goldie Hawn and daughter Kate Hudson chat about their resemblance and relationship in time for Mother's Day

When Kate Hudson first burst onto the scene with the movie Almost Famous, her uncanny resemblance to her mother Goldie Hawn had everybody talking. Hudson didn't see it. But now that she's a mother herself — of two sons, Rider and Bingham — the 34-year-old actress says she treasures the comparison. The mother-daughter pair — Hawn an Oscar winner for Cactus Flower and Hudson a nominee for Almost Famous — has never acted together, but they teamed up for an Almay ad for Mother's Day. In a discussion of motherhood and beauty, both said their glow comes from the inside. Hawn said daily meditation allows her to "connect to spirit."

"Growing up with my mom there was always a sense of fun and it comes down to optimism as well," Hudson said in an interview with The Associated Press. "When you learn how to be optimistic and wake up in the morning and appreciate things and create that in your brain, I think you start to have an enjoyment of life and it shows."

Now that Kate is an adult and a mom herself, has your relationship gone from parent and child to friends?

Hawn: The truth is that no matter how old we are, as long as our mothers are alive, we want our mother. And it's a very powerful relationship if it's healthy. I miss my mother today. I think the transition does happen but I don't think we ever lose our positioning because we don't want to lose our mother. It's a very, very interesting walk.

Hudson: I think when I had Rider I think that's when you really start to see your parents and connect with them in a different way and you start to see yourself differently as to what you put your parents through, you sort of empathize.

Everyone talks about how you two look alike. Do you see the resemblance?

Hawn: I do.

Hudson: I used to say, "Why do people say that? I look nothing like my mom" but I sometimes walk across a mirror and just get a glance and I see it.

Hawn: We don't really look alike. You take all of our features and they're not alike. What we do have is a way of being that is both very similar. Katie's eyes are different. She looks more like my mother. It's interesting how you can feel it's in the DNA. Katie said it perfectly, she said, "Why does everybody always talk about this and that and us" and she said, "What do you expect? I'm my mother's daughter!"

Hudson: And you know what, I am damn proud of it! It's a very repetitive question that I get a lot in my life and it's something that I feel the rarity of being in that position is I really look at that as a real blessing because the relationship between mother and daughter is very complex and to be able to talk about the importance of the relationship is something that I look forward to. It really informed such a huge part of who I am and the confidence that I have as a woman. It really does come from the closeness that I have with mommy.

Mark my words. Kat Von D's newest book chronicles the permanent and personal stories behind her work

NATALIE SHURE
Metro World News in NYC

In her third book, Go Big or Go Home, acclaimed tattoo artist and reality star Kat Von D delves deep to tell stories from her own life, and experiences she's shared with clients. Chock-full of photos of tattoos in various stages of completion, and the people who wear them, the book sheds light on the personality, process and profession of one of the tattoo world's brightest stars. We had a few questions for Kat about the art of ink and writing.

What made this book more challenging to write than your other two?

I've always been an open book — no pun intended. It's just a little bit more profound on an emotional level. I want to be as open and honest as possible, even in all my flaws.

What do you love most about tattooing?

There's all this negative stigma surrounding people with tattoos. But I've always thought it's a form of being openly devoted to something, and that's a very rare and great quality to have. You listen to people's stories during an intimate session, and really get to know somebody. I like the idea of being extra connected to a piece because you know how much it's valued by the client.

You're known for your portrait work. How did you get into that?

I think it has to do with the television show. I was doing a lot of them on there and got a reputation for portraits. I love black and grey realism. So I could do a portrait of a paper clip, or a person, and I'd still get excited. It's more about the textures and accuracy.

Maxim's Hot 100 list, which is a compilation of the world's sexiest women, is out. Here's the top five with their ages included. Miley Cyrus, 20, takes top honours, while Selena Gomez, 20 is second,

Fall Out Boy's Wentz opens up about his drug addiction

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

The 33-year-old bassist for Fall Out Boy (and the ex of one Ashlee Simpson) opens up in a new issue of Rolling Stone about how he sunk into a pill addiction after Fall Out Boy went on hiatus in 2009.

The rocker says he abused Xanax and Klonopin, which are primarily used to treat anxiety. "I was probably physically and mentally addicted," Wentz reveals. "It started from insomnia and anxiety from flying, then it spiralled. He continues, "I felt like a loser already. I'd basically gone from being the guy in Fall Out Boy to being the guy, who, like, hangs out all day. I didn't see how I'd ever come out on the other side."

Things only got worse when Wentz split from Simpson. "I was scared of everything. I thought there were always people listening to me," he says. "Like, I had my house searched for bugs. It was crazy."

Wentz says he is clean now, thanks to his son Bronx, 4, and extensive work with a therapist.

Church leaders not impressed with Bowie's bar-hopping Jesus

Church leaders have reacted angrily to the release of a video to accompany David Bowie's latest single, The Next Day, in which he poses as Jesus in a bar. Lord Carey, the former Archbishop of Canterbury — the global head of the Anglican church — said the video was "juvenile" and urged Christians to "rise above it." But he also couldn't resist having a dig: "I doubt that Bowie would have the courage to use Islamic imagery — I very much doubt it." The video contains a sequence of Bowie in a bar in robes,

It's never too early to get your ice cubes in a row when it comes to summertime cocktails. Though popping the cork on a bottle of wine or twisting-off the cap of a chilled beer may be easier, no drink makes your back deck feel more like the Caribbean than a mixed drink.

While some are complicated, most cocktails are a lot easier to make than you might think. Warm weather favourites like the Bloody Caesar (invented in Canada), the Margarita and the Cosmopolitan are no-brainers.

I love to get my Mojito on this time of year. The Cuban classic, which combines white rum, sugar, lime juice, sparkling water, mint leaves and a bit of muddling, is one of the most refreshing drinks in the mixology handbook.

Bacardi — Cuba's hometown hero — is the standard white rum of choice for a Mojito. I kneel to liquid tradition, but find the new wave of white spiced rums make an even better impression in the glass. Captain Morgan Silver Spiced Rum ($24.49 to $29.99) mixes white spices, vanilla and a subtle sweetness that works wonders with the Mojito's minty personality. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SLEEK & SEXY

Humidity can be measured two ways — relatively or by dew point — but who needs percentages when frizzy hair is the best dead giveaway?

This season's most delectable hair trends, however, are seemingly without regard for humidity. Styles spotted on the runways rarely swayed from sleek, but how strands were tied ranged from tight knots (at Ralph Lauren and Givenchy) to simple braids (at Jason Wu and Marchesa) and low-slung ponytails (at Michael Kors and Jil Sander). The common theme among them was simplicity, with not a complicated up-do in sight. Therefore, replicating this season's knotty trends should be a cinch — it's beating the humidity and fighting off frizz that will take some technique.

Using a wax to build hair's defence against frizz before styling can work. Waxes both seal moisture in and prevent excess water from entering the hair cuticle, which is what ultimately causes strands to puff up and kink, no matter the season.

Hair waxes are also known as pomade, styling crème, paste and whip. The degree of thickness depends on the percentage of other ingredients added versus a base wax, like beeswax. Generally speaking, the finer your hair, the more viscous (watery) your pomade or wax should be. If you have thick, curly hair, a heavier wax would work best to hold your sleek top-knot in place all day. If you have fine, straight hair, pick a product more closely resembling a whip.

YOUR HAIR CARE MENU

APPETIZER, MAIN AND DESSERT FOR YOUR DAMAGED LOCKS

Popular hair care ingredients read like a meal and deliver on nourishment, too. Fixes like argan oil, caffeine, avocado and coconut have stepped up the hair repair game so no damage goes unfed and genuine health gets a fill-up.

By feeding your hair a hefty meal of antioxidizing oils, strengthening proteins, and conditioning butters, you can reinforce strength so the threat of breakage won't spoil your appetite for spending summer days outdoors and lounging around your neighbour's saltwater pool.

Here is a closer look at the menu:

ANTIOXIDANT SALAD (PROTECTION)

Vitamins A, B, C, E and K can be found in numerous hair products. They offer dull and depleted hair protection against oxidative damage (when environmental factors cause your hair to lose protective electrons to free radicals) and bring back plenty of healthy shine. You can find these vitamins by searching product labels for ingredients like apricot oil, pomegranate oil, argan oil, coconut oil, beta carotene, phytochemicals and grapeseed extract. Nourishing to all types of hair.

PROTEIN MAIN (STRENGTH)

Each strand of hair is comprised of three layers of proteins piled atop one another. When the second layer, the cuticle, is damaged, your hair becomes officially dry and damaged.

A protein-rich meal aids in smoothing the proteins into place and building elasticity so strands won't break from brittleness, and makes it easier for them to hold onto moisture.

Protein-rich products range from shampoos to leave-in hair treatments and show up as keratin, collagen, flaxseed and soy-based additives, for example. Fatty oils can weigh fine hair down (therefore best to use overnight) but are generally well absorbed by coarser textures.

CONDITIONING DESSERT (MOISTURE)

Conditioner does for your hair what something sweet after dinner does for our craving — satisfies. Look for shea, jojoba, mango and coconut butters if you prefer natural ingredients to fight frizz, and if your hair can handle the weight, or glycerin and silicone complexes for smoothness and shine on finer textures. All types of hair will mellow out after a cool and creamy conditioner.

50 SHADES OF WHITE

QUICK-FIX TEETH WHITENING KITS ARE EASY TO USE

At-home teeth whitening kits are a fraction of the cost of what you would pay to see your dentist. Products are easy and safe to use so you don't have to give up on your favourite vices.

The effective agent in most whitening products is hydrogen peroxide (H₂O₂). It is also likely the most popular bathroom cabinet essential (you would recognize the brown bottle with white writing, right?) because it's simply a combination of water and oxygen, and extremely affordable.

Hydrogen peroxide is one of the best germicidal agents for a household full of kids — when you used to fall off your bike and scrape your knee, your mom likely doused the bandage in H₂O₂ before sending you back outside, but these days you should consider hydrogen peroxide your ticket to whiter teeth.

Choose a teeth-whitening product with controlled amounts of hydrogen peroxide on the label. Take your pick of kits, toothpaste and mouthwash — they all have the right amount of hydrogen peroxide to whiten your teeth safely at home.

The strongest whitening kits on store shelves have 14 per cent hydrogen peroxide. Whitening mouthwashes are often made effective by a combination of hydrogen peroxide and sodium hexameta-phosphate. An alternative to H₂O₂ is carbamide peroxide, also found in whitening products, which is slower to oxidize and roughly one-third the strength of hydrogen peroxide. It may be the better option for whitening highly sensitive teeth.

As for maintaining your newly whitened teeth, think more so about how acidic your food is than its inherent colour. Salt and vinegar chips for example, though extremely delicious, are highly acidic and may contribute to the erosion of tooth enamel. Same goes for orange juice, citrus fruit and white wine, which is actually more likely than red wine to stain your teeth because it's more acidic. Also, drink water after your morning espresso to rinse away the lingering crema, and keep a spare toothbrush in your bag for good measure.

PAYING LIP SERVICE

Among the must-have lip shades this season are bouquets of both crimson red and barely-there nudes so subtle they nearly conceal your mouth. This spring, opposites attract equally.

Flesh tone lips flatter an expressively smoked eye (try this season's vivid palette of violet, indigo blue or emerald green) and also appear appropriately restrained against a bronzed complexion. Jennifer Lawrence is obviously a fan (she wears nudes often and very well) and Beyoncé always manages to make a bare lip look super fierce.

Choosing the right shade of nude is essential since it will set you up for appearing Brigitte Bardot-ish rather than passing on to the next life. Your teeth will look white rather than three shades deeper. Generally, three tones of nude lipsticks exist: Ones with apricot undertones; those with a pink tint; and true, honest beiges. Try the first two and avoid the third since that's how lips can look mistakenly chalky, like you have eaten a powdery doughnut and forgotten to tissue off.

As for red, the hottest swatches are tangerine and glossy (the ones created for Moschino by Tom Pecheux looked like freshly peeled citrus fruit) and crimson and matte. Choosing a red lipstick is truly a personal adventure to embark upon. The shade's vibrancy is so powerful, and red carries so many cultural and emotional connotations that you should try on shade after shade until you find one that makes you feel fiery.

Absolutely skip the lip liner with nude shades (you may look like a mannequin if you don't), but feel free to employ one with deep crimson lipstick. A perfectly precise line can add to the allure of red lips, like the ones created by Pat McGrath at Prada. She applied layer after layer of lipstick, blotting in between, to make sure the finished texture was opaque and deliciously rich. — Rebecca Perrin

NHL playoffs.

Goaltending makes the difference in series finale between rivals

One thing the Ottawa Senators and Montreal Canadiens agreed on at the end of their sometimes-bitter playoff series was that it all came down to goaltending.

Craig Anderson's rock-solid play and some shaky moments for Montreal backup Peter Budaj put the Senators through to the second round of the NHL playoffs with a 6-1 romp over the Canadiens on Thursday night.

Ottawa won the best-of-seven Eastern Conference quarter-final 4-1 and will move on to the second round for the first time since 2007, when they reached the Stanley Cup final only to fall to the Anaheim Ducks.

"Finding a way to win two games in this building feels great, and so was being able to finish it off on our first chance," Senators captain Daniel Alfredsson said. "Andy made some great saves and we took over more and more as the game went on."

Anderson, who posted heady numbers in the regular season, was just as sharp in the playoffs, holding the usually high-scoring Canadiens to nine goals in five games while his own supposedly low-scoring team piled on 20 against Montreal.

"For our team, Craig Anderson obviously was the MVP of this playoff series," said Ottawa coach Paul MacLean. "He was outstanding in every game."

"He gives us a chance to bend but not break, to recover, get our bearings. And once we do that, we're able to establish our game."

He got no argument from his Montreal counterpart, Michel Therrien.

"He was the player of the series," he said.

Anderson made the difference right off the bat in this one.

Injury-racked Montreal stormed out of the gates, but Anderson shot out his glove for a brilliant save on Rene Bourque in the opening moments.

At the other end, a clearly nervous Budaj, making his first career playoff start, coughed up a huge rebound on Ottawa's first chance and Zack Smith put it in only 2:17 into the game.

Cory Conacher had two goals while Alfredsson, Kyle Turris and Erik Condra also scored for Ottawa, who were underdogs as the seventh seed in the East.

P.K. Subban scored for Montreal, which had five players injured in the series, including starting goalie Carey Price. Budaj made 23 saves in his place.

Change ahead for swept Canucks, GM Gillis says

Vancouver Canucks general manager Mike Gillis says it's time to reset the organization.

He held a season-ending media availability Thursday after the Canucks were swept by the San Jose Sharks in their Western Conference quarter-final.

Gillis says he plans to review every element of the organization — including the performance of head coach Alain Vigneault — before any decisions are made.

Blackhawks advance after convincing win

Chase for the cup.

Chicago moves on to the next round of the playoffs and will face either the Sharks or the Red Wings

Marian Hossa scored twice to back a strong effort by goalie Corey Crawford, and the Chicago Blackhawks beat the Minnesota Wild 5-1 Thursday night to win their first-round playoff series 4-1.

Chicago is moving on in the post-season for the first time since its championship run in 2010, and will face either San Jose or Detroit if the Red Wings get past Anaheim.

Hossa scored off a feed from Jonathan Toews late in the first period. Marcus Kruger made it 2-0 with a wraparound early in the second, and Hossa chased the Wild's Josh Harding when he knocked in a rebound minutes later.

Then, after Torrey Mitchell scored for Minnesota, Chicago's Andrew Shaw scored against Darcy Kuemper. Patrick Sharp added his fifth goal of the series early in the third period, and that was more than enough for Crawford.

Coming off his second career playoff shutout, he saved 21 shots, and the Blackhawks became the third team to advance in this post-season, along with San Jose and Ottawa. They also bucked a recent trend of early exits for Presidents' Trophy winners.

Walk it out: Jays' bases-loaded free pass gives Rays win

MLB. Contest featuring reigning Cy Young Award winners decided in extra innings

Luke Scott drew a bases-loaded walk with two outs in the 10th inning to give the Tampa Bay Rays a 5-4 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays on Thursday night.

Scott fell behind 0-2 in the count before taking four straight balls from Brad Lincoln. The Rays loaded the bases on Evan Longoria's double off Aaron Lough (1-3) and two walks.

The game featured a rare matchup of reigning Cy Young Award winners; however, David Price and R.A. Dickey were not involved in the decision. It was only the third time since the Cy Young has been awarded in both leagues that reigning winners have faced each other the following season.

In the other matchups, Atlanta's Tom Glavine beat Roger Clemens and the New York Yankees 6-2 on July 15, 1999, and the Mets' Frank Viola defeated the Dodgers' Orel Hershiser 1-0 on Aug. 28, 1989.

Dickey allowed three runs and five hits, walked five and struck out five in six innings for the Blue Jays. He left with a 4-3 lead that Steve Delabar relinquished by giving up a solo homer to the first batter the reliever faced, ex-Blue Jay Yunel Escobar leading off the seventh.

Price worked eight innings for Tampa Bay, yielding four runs (two earned) and seven hits in eight innings.

Scott singled to right-field with the potential go-ahead run on second base with two outs in the bottom of the eighth, but Longoria was thrown out at home by Jays outfielder Jose Bautista.

Ailing Bulls all-star back at practice

It started with the flu, and turned into a hospital stay. There were terrible headaches and weakness. Just walking was a chore.

All at the worst time for Luol Deng and the Chicago Bulls.

The all-star forward made an appearance at Chicago's practice facility on Thursday, but it was clear from his drawn appearance and measured tone that he might not be able to make it back in time to play in the Bulls' post-season series against the Miami Heat.

"I don't know. I want to play, but I don't know what I can do," Deng said. "I just, I haven't done anything."

Deng joined his teammates for the film session covering Wednesday night's 115-78 loss that evened the series heading into Game 3 in Chicago on Friday night. He also got on the court and took a few jumpers, but that was all he could handle.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

The planets suggest you will find yourself at odds with the accepted way of doing things today. Even if it causes you financial hardship, you will fight on the side of what you believe is right. Good for you.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Today's solar eclipse in your birth sign means you can't put off what needs to be done. What you start over the next 24 hours will pay dividends for the next 24 months!

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You will need to make some difficult decisions today. The important thing is that once you have decided on a certain course of action, you see it through to the end.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

There are so many opportunities in your life right now that you may find it hard to decide what to do first. But decide you must, and quickly. The last thing you need now is to be trapped by indecision.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Today's solar eclipse means a new start in your career or vocation is not just possible but desirable too. If your present position does not satisfy you, now is the time for a change.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Your life will change for the better over the next few days. What matters even more though is that your attitude is changing: You no longer attach so much importance to things of a material nature. Good.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Most things change slowly but occasionally you get the chance to change things quickly and today's eclipse makes this the ideal time to make a quantum leap. Change your outlook and your world.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

If a relationship has been going through a tough time of late then today's eclipse will bring matters to a head. A new start is possible but you both have got to want it.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Cosmic activity in the work and wellbeing area of your chart suggests you are thinking of changing your daily routine, maybe in quite dramatic ways. And why not? Change is good.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You should be having the time of your life right now and if that is not the case, it can only be because you are letting the past hold you back. Today's eclipse urges you to be bold.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Do not, repeat not, interfere in other people's private affairs today — and don't let other people interfere in your private matters either. You may think you know best, and maybe you do, but it won't change a thing.

Pisces

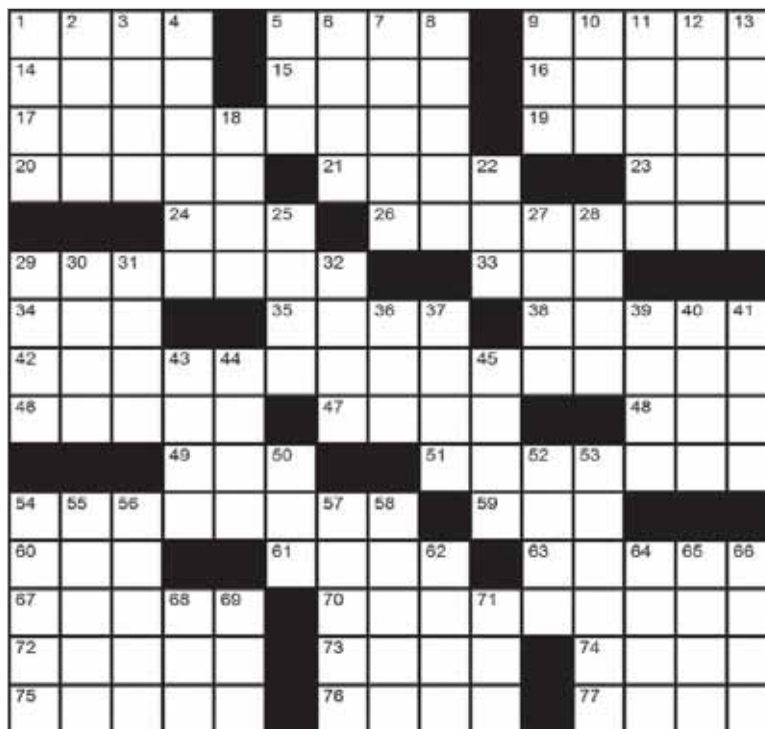

Feb. 20 - March 20

Life has been a bit predictable of late but as from today things should get a lot more interesting. If you have not yet made any social plans for the next few days then make them now. SALLY BROMPTON

GIVING KIDS A SPORTING CHANCE IN EDMONTON

For the Proselio family in Edmonton, charity begins at a very young age. Ben Proselio was looking forward to celebrating his ninth birthday when he announced that he didn't want any gifts this year. "He said he already had enough," says Stephanie Proselio, Ben's mother. "He wanted to give something back to other kids who didn't have enough. He wanted other kids to be able to play hockey."

Ben sent out invitations to his birthday party with a note telling his friends not to bring any presents. The note added that they were welcome to bring a donation to Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities instead. One boy's humble birthday request raised an impressive $285.

B hockey team where Ben plays right wing. He says that everyone on the team was humbled by Ben's gesture, and that Ben knows better than most kids what it means to have the right hockey gear.

"When he started out, he didn't have a good pair of skates," says Gibbs. "As a result, he had trouble playing well."

New gear made all the difference.

Ben's teammates voted him Most Improved Player this year. "His improved confidence thanks to the new equipment is a big part of the reason he started loving the game," says Stephanie.

CANADIAN TIRE JUMPSTART HELPS KIDS REALIZE THEIR SPORTING DREAMS

vision is more than getting children involved in sports and recreation—it's to have a country where all kids have a chance to fulfill their dreams," says Johnny Mitley, the President of Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities.

"This year Jumpstart is proud to welcome Sport Chek and Atmosphere stores, to the family. Since these two banners came on board in January, they have raised more than $550,000 alone. Also, again this year we have support from a partner beyond the enterprise family Pita Pit who will also be offering Jumpstart red balls in exchange for a $2 donation.

"We're giving children the chance to learn life skills, create lasting friendships and fulfill their dreams," says Mitley. "That's the power of sport."

to work in every community across Canada, with 332 local chapters built on the support from volunteers. These chapters work closely with more than 2,600 community partners to identify families with financial needs whose children would benefit from the programs. Jumpstart Ambassador and Olympic gold medalist Rosie MacLennan explains, "there are so many benefits to

What kid doesn't love to swim, dance or play soccer, basketball, baseball or hockey? Not only are those activities fun, but research also shows that physical activity and access to sports for children leads to increased self-esteem, strong leadership skills and improved school performance.

The reality is that one in three Canadian families can't afford to enrol their sons and daughters in sport and recreational programs. That's where Canadian Tire Jumpstart comes in. The national charitable program is making a real difference in the lives of young kids from age four to 18, and its annual May Red Ball Campaign contributes to those efforts. The campaign's slogan, "Together we can help all kids play," couldn't be more apt.

In return for a $2 donation at any Canadian Tire Retail, Sport Chek, Atmosphere, Mark's or Canadian Tire Gas+ store, customers will receive a mini red volleyball or soccer ball throughout May. One hundred per cent of donations go directly to help deserving kids in each store's community participate in organized sport and recreation.

Since Canadian Tire Jumpstart launched in 2005, it has helped more than 570,000 (and counting) kids take part in 73 different activities. "Our
